Counselors are available to assist parents and students with course selections and career planning. Parents may arrange to meet with the counselor by calling the school's guidance department.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The English 9 Honors course focuses on developing the students' critical and analytical language skills. The students' year begins with the portfolio overview and a literary genres overview. As the students examine the elements of narration, they review the elements of plot, setting, characterization, tone, theme, and point of view in short stories and novels. In addition, they gain an understanding of attitude, tone, and perspective. During the study of nonfiction, the students analyze various forms including essays, reports, biographies, and autobiographies. In addition, they learn to distinguish between subjective and objective writing. As they study satire, the students learn to distinguish the characteristics of various types of satire and the fact that satire can cross genres.

While studying poetry, students examine the ways writers use the elements and devices of poetry to create a literary effect. Students are thoroughly immersed in the language of poetry as they read, discuss and analyze poems. As the students progress through the last unit, they read plays from the three stages in the development of drama (Greek, Elizabethan, and Modern). During the reading of the plays, students study theatrical conventions, sharpen their skills in oral interpretation, justify their personal responses to the work, develop a specialized vocabulary related to the study of drama, and collaborate on an informal research project.

These units integrate skills in reading, writing, speaking/listening, problem solving, and working cooperatively. Composition instruction emphasizes the five modes of discourse as well as creative writing. Grammar, usage, mechanics, and vocabulary are integrated into each unit for the purpose of strengthening skills as needed. All pieces of a student's writing are stored in a Works in Progress folder from which each student selects pieces of writing for his or her writing portfolio. The contents of the portfolio illustrate how each student has grown and improved as a writer throughout the year.
